Wedding Bells Ring Out.

From The Philadelphia (N. Y.) Advance.

This, the autumn of the year, the time when all nature takes on a luring aspect, when the leaves begin to turn and we are blessed with the ideal weather of the whole year, this is the time of blushing brides and wedding ceremonies, and this year is unusually productive of these glad events, many marriages having occurred in our town the past month and invitations issued for several more in the next two weeks.

Last Wednesday evening, Sept. 21st, 1904, at seven o'clock, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Comstock in this village, a pretty scene was enacted, when, amid profuse decorations of flowers and potted plants, and in the presence of relatives and near friends, their daughter, Miss Grace, became the bride of Mr. John Extrom.

The home on Mill street was beautifully decorated for the function, the two spacious drawing-rooms in the front of the house being trimmed with potted plants, ferns and princess cedar from Yaddo Park, Saratoga county. The railing to the stairs down which the bridal couple marched in entering the room where the ceremony was performed, was wound with princess cedar ornamented with large clusters of hydrangeas, and the pedestal at the foot of the railing was wound with princess cedar and coxcomb. The dining room was trimmed in pink. Suspended from the ceiling in the drawing-room where the ceremony was performed, was a floral circle of princess cedar trimmed with white roses, and prettily woven in the piece were two white doves. The entire floral decorations were under the supervision of Mrs. Mary Mart of Saratoga Springs, aunt of the bride.

To the strains of Lohengrin, played by Mrs. M. W. Avery, the bridal couple entered the room, attended by Miss Rose Extrom, a sister of the groom, as bridesmaid, and Mr. John Comstock, a brother of the bride, as groomsman. Taking their position beneath the bridal bower Rev. J. H. Keeling pronounced the words making them man and wife.

The bride was gowned in a dress of white crepe de shine over white taffeta, with Dresden lade trimmings, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She wore a traveling suit of dark brown. The bridesmaid wore a gown of white chiffon over white taffeta and carried a bouquet of white astors.

The wedding dinner was served by cateress Nichols.

The bride is a popular young lady of Philadelphia, with many friends. The groom is a young man who came to this town from Emporium, Penna., a year ago, and who, since his residence here, has gained the friendship of Philadelphia's young people. The best wishes of their friends are extended for a happy journey through life.

The couple left on the evening train for a wedding tour through Canada and New York State, intending to visit Montreal, Quebec, Buffalo and other places before their return, Oct. 1.

The wedding presents were many, consisting of cut glass, silverware and valuable gifts expressive of the regard in which they are held by their friends. The gift of the bride's father was in the nature of a generous check.

Among those present from out of town were: Misses Olga and Rose Extrom, sisters of the groom, from Emporium, Pa.; Mrs. Mary Mart, Saratoga Springs, and Miss Mabel Tait, of Gouverneur.

The many Emporium friends of Mr. Extrom join the PRESS in extending the best wishes for a long, prosperous and happy life.

DEATH'S DOINGS.

LEWIS.

Died, Sept. 15th, 1904, at the home of his uncle Mr. R. Lockwood, in Rich Valley, GORDON LEON LEWIS, aged 26 years, 11 months and 18 days. The deceased was a son of Albert W. Lewis and had always resided in this place. The young man came to his death by falling upon a file, puncturing the right lung, while he and a cousin were hurring home in the dark to escape a thunder storm. The deceased was unmarried but leaves a father and mother with many friends and associates to mourn his untimely death.

Funeral services were held at the home R. Lockwood on the 17th inst., remains were interred in Rich Valley cemetery and words of comfort were spoken to the bereaved ones by Elder C. J. McVagh, of Coudersport, Pa.

COLLINS.

Mrs. R. W. Collins, (nee Mary A. Jordan) died at the home of her son, B. J Collins at Huntley, Sept. 29th, 1904, at 12:30, from old age and a complication of diseases. She was in her seventy-third year of her age, and the general community not being aware of the serious nature of her illness, heard the announcement of her death with mingled feelings of surprise and sorrow. Her illness was of short duration, being sick about a month.

Three of her children, B. J., Edgar and Miss Mattie, and a sister Mrs. Shaffer, were at her bedside when the angels bore away her spirit to the bosom of her Heavenly Father.

Mrs. Collins was born at Huntley, and lived in that vicinity all her life, and was held in the highest esteem by a large circle of friends. She was a devoted wife and mother, a kind friend and an excellent neighbor and her counsels will be missed by all of her acquaintances. Her christian experience covers over half a century, being a member of the M. E. Church since her conversion.

The floral display was beautiful and consisted of many expensive pieces.

THE FUNERAL.

Her funeral services were conducted in the Huntley church, amid the scenes of her childhood days, her pastor Rev. G. W. Faus, officiating, and took for his text these beautiful words, "To live is Christ, but to die is gain." The choir of the M. E. Church, Driftwood, rendered the music. Funeral director Geo. J. LaBar, had charge of the remains and they were laid at rest in the Huntley cemetery, beside her husband, who died four years ago.

RELATIVES AND FRIENDS IN ATTENDANCE FROM A DISTANCE.

Relatives and friends in attendance from outside of Huntley were in large numbers, among whom we are enabled to give the following names: Edgar Collins (son) and wife, Geneva, O.; Asa Collins (son) and wife, Conneaut, O.; Miss Mattie Collins, (daughter) Emporium; William Jordan (brother) Benezette, James K. Jordan, (brother) and wife, Mrs. F. N. Shaffer, (sister) Mrs. N. D. Jordan, Mrs. Faucett, Mrs. Housler, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Beck, Miss Rena Jordan, Joel Jordan, Emporium; William McDonald, Cleveland, O.; Mr. and Mrs. David Clark, Miss Murphy, Johnsonburg; Mrs. Geo. Strawbridge, Sterling Run; Mrs. Wm. Driver, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnson, Renovo; Mr. and Mrs. John Gleason, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Towers, Mrs. Kimpel, Driftwood; Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Jordan, Mason Hill.

Editor in no Hurry to Die.

The editor of the Arcade Leader was remonstrated with recently by a man who complained that she did not publish all the things that happened in that village. Her reply was: "We should say we don't. In the first place we have others who depend on us for a living. If we published all that happened we should soon be with the angels. In order to please people we must print only nice things of them and leave the rest to the gossips. Yes, it's a fact, we don't print all the news. If we did wouldn't it make spicy reading? But this would be for one week only. The next week you would read our obituary and there would be a strange face in heaven."

The Fair.

The Fair Management requests all persons having resided continuously in Cameron county duing the last fifty years to be present at the Fair on Friday afternoon, Oct 7th, at one o'clock.

It is desired to have a photograph taken of them in a group on the Fair grounds. Those from out of town can go the Warner House and get their dinner for which the Fair Mangement will pay and will also provide free transportation to the grounds immediately after dinner. The six persons in the group who have resided in the county the longest will be presented with a picture.

Ass't Manager.

New Warner Continues to Improve.

Mr. Joseph L. Wheeler, proprietor of the New Warner, has certainly surprised his friends as well as the general public, as they view the beautiful and elaborate style of the improvements now being made in that old familiar House. Every improvement, including the artistic decorations, furniture, fresco and hand painted decorations are equal to the best. The lobby, office, reading and writing rooms are, or will be, home like, and up-to date, while the hand decorations, painting and stencil work of the workmen under and by contractors Mr. Ed. Stophel, of Kane, and Mr. H. C. Fritz, of Ridgway, is highly complimentary to the expert artists, who should be proud of their work. When completed, the Warner will certainly be a dream. In addition to the elaborate finish and substantial furniture on the interior, new and modern colonial porches are being erected at the three outside main entrances—very imposing. The dining room, large and commodious, has received especial attention, new furniture having replaced the old. Lady waiters under the direction of an experienced head-lady, look carefully and promptly to the wants of the guests. The office is in charge of Mr. Chas. Davis, as day clerk, and Ex-Sheriff Riley Warner, well known to the traveling public as former proprietor for so many years, is night clerk, while Mr. Geo. Little is in charge of the wet goods department. Last but not least Parker Jackson, the silvery-tongued Porter is always on hand to call "All aboard for Buff—alo."

BRIEF MENTION.

Real enjoyment is had when reading that clever magazine, The Smart Set.

There will be communion services at Presbyterian Church, next Sunday morning.

A large barn on Zimmerman estate, at Liberty, Pa., was destroyed by fire last Friday night. Two horses were burned to death. The barn was filled with hay.

Mrs. Geo. L. Day will conduct a chicken and waffle supper in the basement of the new Presbyterian church on Thursday evening, Oct. 13th. Come everybody and help on the good work. Proceeds for church erection fund. Supper from 5 o'clock till all are served.

Mrs. Seth J. Hackett's Sunday School class will serve ice cream, cake and coffee in the basement of the new Presbyterian church Friday evening, October 7th, from five o'clock until all are served. Proceeds for the benefit of the new Presbyterian church. The patronage accorded them in their worty efforts, will be greatly appreciated.

The game of base ball, last Saturday, between the Austin and Emporium high schools, at this place, was very inieresting and was attended by a not large but enthusiastic crowd. The attendance was small because of the foot ball game which drew heavily upon sporting blood. The Emporium high school team came out victors, by a score of 19 to 14. No wonder the boys did not complain of the chilly weather.

J. Orvis Hemphill pitched a successful game of ball for the Driftwood boys against Lock Haven, last Monday, the score being 5 to 4, eleven innings. Our young pitcher, of course, had excellent support, but he is to be congratulated upon his work this season and especially in this game as the Lock Haven team had just won a game from the Williamsport nine. Mr. Hemphill is a quiet, modest young man, and with proper care will make a great record as a pitcher. Out of twenty-seven or eight games, this season, he has lost but four or five.

Dropped Dead.

PHINEAS H. MASON, aged 68 years, of Gibson township, dropped dead on Tuesday afternoon, while working on the road at Huston Hill. Mr. Mason, who is one of Cameron county's sturdy citizens, was in apparently good health when, as Supervisor he went to his duties. When stricken with heart failure he was carried to the house of Powell Barr, but died within a few minutes. He leaves a wife and one son, Anson, to mourn his death. We have been acquainted with the deceased for very many years and, in common with all citizen's, respected him very much. The funeral takes place this (Thursday) morning from the family residence, interment being made at Pine street cemetery, Rev. Faus officiating.

Another Physician.

Dr. P D. Shimp, of Philadelphia, has located in Emporium, being associated with Dr. H. W. Good, with offices in Odd Fellows block.

Going to Church.

By Charles E. Jefferson, D. D.

While many cannot attend church, and while others will not attend because of their sordid and selfish and wicked lives, it is a fact worthy of serious consideration that professing Christians do not consider church attendance the important and obligatory thing which it was to men of former times. We Americans are averse to formality, and we never like to do anything which does not pay, and there is a feeling abroad that going to church is a species of formalism foreign to the spiritual genius of the Christian religion, and that however useful such a habit may have been to our God-fearing ancestors, the time has now arrived when the time-honored custom may with property be dispensed with.

One cannot help wondering if what we most need is not thorough and systematic insruction in the New Testament doctrine of the Christian Church, For public worship is only one phase of a much larger subject; and if Christians are inclined to undervalue the importance of church attendance it is not unlikely that the root of the difficulty is a failure to apprehend the character and mission of the Church as outlined by Christ.

According to the New Testament the Church is a visible institution with visible sacraments and visible officials and visible members. It is the body of Christ, the sauctuary of the eternal Spirit, the household of faithful souls, the medium of revelation, the pillar and ground of the truth, the radiant bride of the world's Redeemer. It is through the Church that God is to carry on His work of redemption. That Jesus loved the Church and gave Himself for it and purchased it with His own blood is borne out by the history of the gospels. To the founding and molding of a brotherhood our Lord gave the bulk of his time. He knew that truth must have a home, that ideas must possess a body, that principles in order to conquer must be organized into institutions. He placed His work in the hands of a society. Not to the individual but to the society was promised ultimate victory. Against His Church the gates of hades should not prevail.

With the new commandment ringing in their ears it was inevitable that the disciples should keep together, and that converts as soon as made should be received into the Christian fellowship. All who were in the process of being saved came at once into the brotherhood. The converts "continued steadfastly in the apostles' teaching and fellowship, in the breaking of bread and the prayers." An isolated Christian is unknown to the New Testament. Christianity is in its essence social. A Christian enters into life only in company with the saints. He is first and last and always a brother. In the deepest sense there is no salvation outside the Church. The Lord is with the solitary worshiper in the closet, but when two or three are assembled in His name He is present with fuller blessings and more abundant power.

Social or public worship is essential, then, to the existence of the Christian religion on our earth. Christians have known this from the beginning. Before Christian architecture and Christian music, before Christian officials and Christian government, came the Christian assembly. The Christians of apostolic days knew intuitively that only as they met together could the Lord's will be wrought out in their hearts. They knew they had passed from death to life because they loved the brethren. Later on, when it became dangerous for Christians to assemble, an inspired leader urges them to take the risk of losing their liberty or their life, saying, "Let us consider one another to provoke unto love and to good works: not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as the manner of some is; but exhorting one another."

This is the teaching of all the apostles, and of all who have understood what Christianity is and who have triumph. Roman emperors eager to crush the new religion forbade the assembling of Christians together. Had Christians obeyed, Christianity would have died in its youth. Whenever and wherever the spirit of the Lord is acting mightily on the hearts of His followers religious meetings become numerous and fervent.

No danger is more subtle or fatal than the philosophy which disparages the value of church attendance. Break up the Christian assembly for a generation, and Christ's grip upon the nation is broken. The sense of God and the sense of sin, the august beauty of truth and the high dignity of duty, the sweetness of communion and the raptures of heaven, all these are heightened and made real in the great congregation. We kindle one another and and lift one another when as brethren we meet to meditate and pray.

It is when we look at the question from the New Testament standpoint that we see how shallow are many of the reasons given for not going to church. The supreme question is, do you want to keep Christianity alive on this earth? If you do, then do your part, offer your sacrifice, contribute your share. To sit down with one's self and ask what is individually "expedient" is heathenish and worse. Even the commercial and industrial worlds have gotten beyond such cold-blooded selfishness as that. The necessity of group-strength is everywhere realized, and men see that great ends are gained only by co operation and constant self abnegation.

The Christian who would bring the matter down to a personal choice as to what appears to be at any particular time best for each soul, not only tramples Christian principles under his feet, but goes in the teeth of all that is highest and noblest in modern thought. Instead of sitting in a rocking-chair and asking, "What is most expedient for me?" let a man on the Lord's Day take his New Testament and ponder again the meaning of these words, "He that findeth his life shall lose it, but he that loseth his life for My sake shall find it."

Nor is it true, as is often asserted, that decadence in churchgoing does not mean decadence in character. No duty can be shirked without loss of spiritual power. The withdrawal of pagans from our congregations does not mean necessarily any moral deterioration in them, but for Christian people habitually to absent themselves from the Lord's house means inevitable and lamentable moral decay, which, however hidden from view during the lifetime of the persons themselves, will inevitably make itself manifest in the second and third generations.

Let every Christian, then, look upon church attendance as a part of the business which belongs to him as a Christian man. To play golf may from the animal standpoint be more bracing, to write letters may be more pleasant, to read a paper or a novel may be for a time more exhilarating and informing, but a man who is engaged in a great work, the great work of building himself and his race foursquare in righteousness, cannot afford to come down. Like Jesus of Nazareth he will say when the church doors open, "I must be about my Father's business," and like the psalmist he will exclaim, "I was glod when they said unto me, let us go into the house of the Lord."—The Congregationalist.

Samuel Doll Seriously Injured Last Night.

Last evening about 7:30, Samuel Doll, son of Sylvester Doll, who is employed at Climax Powder Co. Farm, was struck by an engine while crossing the track at Portage bridge, not noticing or seeing the engine until too late to get off the track. He was thrown thirty feet. In a dazed condition he reached his home, badly bruised about head and body.

Institute Evening Attractions.

The attention of our citizens is again called to the excellence of the evening attractions, appearing here under the auspices of the Cameron County Teachers' Institute, beginning Monday evening, October 17, with the Wallace Bruce Amsbary Company. Discriminating Lyceum critics regard Mr. Amsbary as America's greatest reader, while his supporting talent is the best.

On Tuesday evening Lalla the celebrated Filipino author and lecturer will be the attraction. Lalla is regarded as the greatest representative of his race now in America and his lecture, to be illustrated by superb lantern views, will be unlike anything heretofore seen or heard by our citizens.

Germaine the Wizard holds the boards Wednesday night and the writer from personal knowledge, having seen him some years ago, can assure the admirers of this form of amusement of an evening replete with enjoyment.

The Cleveland Ladies Orchestra will conclude the series on Thursday night and no one can afford to miss hearing this company of artists. It is easily one of the leading concert organizations in the lyceum field and a filled house should greet their appearance. All the evening attractions will be held in the Opera House. Course tickets, $1.25 each. The teachers will wait on our citizens and the sale of tickets should be large.

League Entertainment.

A good sized audience greatly enjoyed the program of music and recitations given in the First Methodist Episcopal church last Monday evening under the auspices of the Epworth League. The pipe organ selections by Mr. Ericsson were attractive features, the piano sole by Mrs. Trotter a veritable treat, the vocal solo by Miss Taggart was much enjoyed as was also that by little Miss Free. Mr. Hugh Swartz and Miss Lena Swartz rendered a mandolin duet in a delightful manner, the recitations by Mrs. Seavor and Misses Nettie Moore and Ella Hackett were pleasingly given, while the orchestra sustained its reputation for the excellence of its playing. The silver offering was large.

Emporium Wins from Renovo by Score 24 to 0.

Last Saturday was a red letter day in Emporium field sports. All roads led to Howard's athletic grounds, to witness the first foot ball game of the season, to be played between Emporium and Renovo. The day was an ideal one, having a spice of winter in its breath, essential to trained athletes about to engage in so strenuous a game. A game strictly American, and one that only a thoroughly American crowd can appreciate. It is a game that develops and brings out all those manly qualities that ever makes the American citizen a type pre eminently first and proverbially successful in every pursuit, whether it be war or peace.

Long before the hour scheduled for the kick off, the avenues, paddock and every imaginable vantage point was filled to overflowing. It was a typical American holiday crowd, good-natured and smiling, pushing and jostling each other, each selfishly intent on securing the most advantageous position from which to see the impending feat of strength and test of endurance.

Society was there, auto cars, smart traps and jaunty runabouts. The high school girl was very much in evidence with her vivacious manners, sweet personality and expectancy, but illy concealed, as she pictured for the one hundredth time the things that her sweetheart or brother would do when once the great game would be on.

It was a scene of color, a picture of animation. A gay crowd, expectantly anxious, restless with that subdued excitement to be found only in the great foot ball spectator impatiently waiting for the first blast of the referee's whistle that will proclaim to them that the greatest of all games, the Rugby foot ball contest is about to begin.

At 2:30 p. m., the Emporium team, following in the wake of their gallant captain, trotted into the field and under the directions of Capt. Ritchie, engaged in a short but snappy signal practice. The men looked good and fit and their spirit was evident. The Emporium's was shortly followed by Capt. Wade and his sturdy eleven and were cheered to the echo as they came onto the gridiron. Mr. Zuber was chosen to act in the dual capacity of referee and umpire. Capt. Wade having won the toss, chose to defend the west goal, having the material advantage of a strong easterly wind. The ball, on the kick-off, went sailing down the wind to the Emporium 10 yrd. line where it was fumbled and Ritchie only succeeded in running back to his 20 yrd. line, and on the 20 yrd. streak of white Emporium lined up for her first scrimmage with a team, the quality of which remained to be demonstrated. The excitement was intense. A description of the first scrimmage is a description of all the others in this game which resulted in only good practice for the Emporium team. The team work at times was a little ragged; the interference was slow to form and at different times had it not been for Emporium's very powerful line her backs must have been thrown for losses. Quarter-back Good, under his able captain run the team with rare judgment. Howard, the veteran all around player, by his terrific line plunging and hurdling won more yards than any other plunger on either side. Capt. Ritchie and full-back Cavanaugh were good for continual gains every time called upon. The style of play was the old-fashioned straight foot ball, sending the backs through the line, generally directed at guard or tackle. Only twice Emporium tried a fake play; an end run but once; each attempt was but partially successful. A touchdown was made during the first 10 minutes without Emporium losing the ball and in that time Renovo realized the inevitable and afterward, although stubbornly contesting every inch, were fighting only to keep the score as low as possible. At the end of the first half the score was Emporium 12, Renovo 0, Howard kicking both goals.

The second half was a repetition of the first only that Renovo had the ball oftener and either lost it on downs or was compelled to kick. Emporium was not to be denied, they played strong on the defense and fast on the offense and it was simply a matter of time when Renovo would again be fighting in her last ditch. The first touch-down in this half was secured by straight line plunges in exactly three minutes. The last one was passed before time was called. The game a remarkably clean one, was free from holding and off side plays, no penalty being inflicted for either. Renovo playen a good, plucky, up-hill game, but were out classed and out-generaled at every stage of the game. Capt. Wade, Bennett and Bair played well for Renovo, while the playing of Ritchie, Howard, Cavanaugh and Good were easily of the star order. In fact every player is to be highly praised for the excellency of his work.

Time of game: 1 hr 22 min. Score: 24 to 0.

A few sheds erected in 1862 at Jamalapore, India, for repairs to rolling stock of the East India railway, have expanded into a plant covering 100 acres at the present time, and with an output valued at more than 5,000,000 rupees a year. There are 90,000 laborers employed, and in magnitude the shops are said to be exceeded only by those of the London & Northwestern Railway Co. at Crewe.

The quantity of wheat retained for consumption in the United States never reached 275,000,000 bushels prior to 1880. In 1881 it passed the 300,000,000 line and slowly increased with the population; in 1899 it was over 400,000,000 bushels; in 1902 it exceeded 500,000,000, and in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1904, was 517,000,000 bushels—a greater total than in any preceding year.

The company found that the lack of knowledge of agricultural machines was the greatest drawback to the development of its trade in that region.

The report for 1903 on the acreage and production of crops and the number of live stock in Great Britain has just been published by the board of agriculture. Of the 56,675,000 acres which form Great Britain, exclusive of foreshore and tidal water, over 32,225,000 acres are under crops and grass and 12,675,000 acres are occupied by woods and plantations and 500,000 acres are covered by inland waters. Only 16 per cent. of the surface remains to be accounted for.

Lady Eleanor Wickham, the London society leader, has a craze for wearing little grass snakes for bracelets. She entices the reptiles to twine themselves around her wrist, then she plunges her hands and arms into icy cold water for a few moments, with the result that the serpents become torpid and remain in a more or less comatose state for some hours. Thus she is able to preside at afternoon tea with her arms covered with living snakes as bracelets.

In Alaska the reindeer is taking the place of the Eskimo dog as a beast of burden in transporting passengers and freight over frozen snows. He is more enduring and tractable and free from the fits of ill temper that make a pack of dogs troublesome to manage. The dogs, too, must be fed, while the deer find their moss for themselves, says a writer in Donahoe's. They also supply their possessors with wholesome, nutritious milk, even in the rigors of the polar winter, when and where no other milk can be had at any price.

The available farm land in Indian Territory is estimated at 15,000,000 acres. These figures are taken from the records of the Dawes commission. Of this 15 per cent. was in cultivation last year. There will be an increase of at least 5 per cent. this year. Mining is the subject of considerable enterprise in Bolivia. The lode districts are situated, as a rule, on the higher mountainous parts of the elevated Bolivian plateaus, at an average altitude of about 13,000 feet above sea level. At such altitudes the climate is bracing and healthy.

As the Chesapeake oyster crop has grown annually less, the general demand has grown annually greater. The oyster appetite prevails from the Alleghanies to the Rockies, and the great interior has in the past looked to the Chesapeake bay to meet the demand for the savory mollusk. But in recent years this general demand has been supplied largely from the bayous and estuaries of the gulf coast. The inlets from the Long Island Sound and those that indent the coast of New Jersey are also producing an output of high-grade oysters.

TALKING THROUGH HIS HAT.

GROWTH OF THE COUNTRY

National Expenditures Have Simply Kept Pace with the Nation's Unique Development.

If Mr. Parker would consent to descend to particulars instead of dealing with generalities when on the subject of national expenditure the American people would have more respect for him. It is all very well to denounce extravagance, but such denunciations have little or no effect on the public mind. It is absurd to institute comparisons between expenditures of different periods, for they depend upon the national growth and could only be fairly compared if the country were in an arrested stage of development. Judge Parker points out that during Mr. Cleveland's first term the average annual disbursements of the government were much less than they are at present, but he does not let us know whether anything was accomplished in the way of properly meeting the national needs during the democratic administration. It may happen to have been the case that the smaller sum expended during Cleveland's term represents a greater degree of extravagance than the larger disbursements of later years. At any rate, it is up to the critics of republican expenditures to point out in which items extravagance is displayed, and not to confine themselves to wholesale denunciation of totals.

The reason why Judge Parker does not particularize is known to everyone who has any familiarity with the subject of national expenditure. If he should attempt, says the San Francisco Chronicle, to furnish a bill of details it would be possible for republicans to analyze it and demonstrate that his charge is groundless. If, for instance, he objected to the increased expenditures for naval purposes, it would be promptly shown that all appropriations for the navy were made with the approval of the major part of the democrats in congress. If he has a quarrel with the size of the pension list, it must be with democrats as well as republicans, for the appropriations for war pensions are practically made unanimously. What is true of these two great classes of appropriations is true of all others. The record does not show any consistent or persistent attempt on the part of the democrats in congress to check expenditure. They are notoriously of the class which favors "the old flag and an appropriation," and the worst offenders in this regard are the members from the "solid south," whose chief reason for being in Washington seems to be to secure substantial recognition for their respective sections.

Apart from these considerations, it is preposterous to make a comparison of expenditures with Cleveland's first term without dwelling upon the growth of the country in the interval. Judge Parker says the average annual expenditures during Cleveland's first term amounted to $269,000,000, and for the past three years they have been $519,000,000. During this interval the population of the country has grown from 58,000,000 to 80,000,000; bank clearings have increased from $55,000,000,000 to $114,000,000,000; exports of domestic merchandise from $730,282,000 to $1,392,000,000; bank deposits from $4,035,622,914 to $10,382,000,000; value of mineral products from $619,512,173 to $1,260,649,265; insurance in force from $4,049,578,567 to $10,508,478,776; annual postage receipts from less than $60,000,000 to about $15,000,000,000. Is it astonishing that the expenditures should have kept pace with the development noted? Not to anyone familiar with the early history of the country, which shows that there has been a steady increase of disbursement under democratic as well as under republican administrations, and that this process has never been checked without producing a marked deterioration of the public service, the efficiency of which can only be maintained by keeping it well abreast of the national growth.

☞Another reason why these 500 democratic editors called upon Judge Parker was because postmasters are not elected by the people.—Chicago Journal.

☞Tariff reductions amounting to more than $100,000,000 a year in revenue have been made by the republican party during the period in which Judge Parker says no substantial reductions at all have been made. That gives the country and the wage earner a fair idea of the Parker notion of tariff reduction.—Buffalo News.

WAGES AND THE TARIFF.

More Than All Else Protection Protects the Welfare of the American Workingman.

The democratic platform denounces the protective tariff policy of the republican party as "a robbery of the many for the enrichment of the few." We cannot keep this assertion before the people and the wage earners too often. It will be iteration and reiteration. Many eminent economists, with free-trade leanings, of course, have declared that the only thing which a protective tariff protects is labor. The democratic party, says the Wheeling Intelligencer, has declared otherwise.

The London Ironmonger some years ago declared strenuously that this is a fact. It stated that labor was the only thing which a protective tariff really protected. It has been asserted by many other statisticians that the protective tariff is all that keeps the wages of the American workingmen at the high level which they have reached. There are many people who would like to see these wages reduced to the European level. They say it is wholly unnatural that the wage earners of the United States should receive wages so much higher than are paid by the other nations of the world. It is very likely that this is what troubles a good many free-traders of this country. They believe that we should get down to the level of wages in Europe, and that the only way to accomplish this is to get down to a free-trade basis. The framers of the democratic platform of 1892 probably had this idea in mind when they built the tariff plank in which they declared:

"We denounce republican protection as a fraud and a robbery of a great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few. We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the democratic party that the federal government has no constitutional power to impose and collect tariff duties except for the purpose of revenue only."

On the other hand, the republican party has always maintained that a protective tariff keeps up the wages of the working people and protects the manufacturer from the low wage schedule of his European competitors. The working men who have looked into this subject are fully convinced that the protective tariff protects their wages. There is no doubt about it.

A POINT FOR YOUNG MEN.

Do They Agree with Judge Parker That Our Flag Should Come Down in Philippines?

The young men of the United States, by tens of thousands, bravely volunteered to put down insurrection in the Philippines. Our treaty with Spain touching the great archipelago on the far side of the Pacific was clinched by the valor and sacrifices of armies composed of young Americans. Judge Parker has just said in a letter that he is in favor of telling the hundreds of tribes in the Philippines at once that they will eventually be given independence on the same basis as the Cubans. That is to say, argues the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, we should now assure the Filipinos that their flag will go up and the United States flag come down; that we retain only a naval station by treaty; that the Filipinos conduct their own independent government, imposing a tariff against our goods, and, doubtless, increasing it, as Cuba has just done, and negotiating national loans to be distributed among Filipinos, also on the Cuban plan. Was it for this pulling down of the flag that the noble arimes of young Americans fought and hiked in the Philippines? Judge Parker's proposed surrender of the islands has not yet been discussed in this country. He has pledged himself to act now without any popular debate or congressional consideration. His convention telegram and his letter on the Philippines show that he is an extremely unsafe man, erratic, premature and generally dangerous in his egotistic movements.

☞If Parker, Bryan and Cleveland all take the stump voters will be served with three kinds of democracy and may take their pick.—Boston Transcript.

☞"Not converted by telegrams," say the bankers attending the association meeting in New York when asked why they support Roosevelt. They have cut their financial eyeteeth and are not to be worked in a gold brick game.—Troy (N. Y.) Times.

☞Mr. Watterson asks his democratic brethren: "What, then, gentlemen, shall we do to be saved?" The case seems a despérate one, but if his democratic brethren are unable to answer the question we would suggest that voting for Roosevelt and Fairbanks would be a good start on the road to safety.—N. Y. Tribune.

EVENTFUL CAREER IS CLOSED.

SENATOR GEORGE FRISBIE HOAR PASSES AWAY.

The End Followed a Period of Unconsciousness that Had Lasted Several Days—Brief Synopsis of His Life.

Worcester, Mass., Sept. 30.—George Frisbie Hoar, senior United States senator from Massachusetts, died at his home in this city at 1:35 this morning.

The end followed a period of unconsciousness that had continued since early Tuesday and had come so gently that only the attending physicians were aware of the exact moment of dissolution.

George Frisbie Hoar was born at Concord, Mass., August 29, 1826. He was the son of Judge Samuel Hoar, and the grandson of Roger Sherman, who signed the Declaration of Independence. After taking the regular course at the Harvard law school, he was admitted to the bar and began his law practice at Worcester. In 1852 he was elected a member of the Massachusetts legislature. In 1857 he was chosen state senator. In 1869 he made his entrance into national politics, being elected to congress, to which he was elected three consecutive times. Declining renomination for fifth term, he was chosen United States senator from Massachusetts in 1876, being re-elected in 1882, 1888, 1894 and 1900.

Senator Hoar.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 1.—The tolling of the bells of the church towers and fire stations of Worcester communicated to his fellow citizens the intelligence of the passing of United States Senator George Frisbie Hoar, whose death occurred at 1:35 a. m. Friday. At 2:55 o'clock the chimes on Plymouth church played "Nearer, My God, to Thee." Five minutes later a flag on a manufacturing plant, the first one to be half-masted, was raised.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The president pro tem. of the senate has designated the following senators as a committee on the part of the senate to attend the funeral of Senator Hoar:

Lodge, Platt (Conn.), Hale, Depew, McComas, Spooner, Foraker, Beveridge, Elkins, Dryden, Stewart, Cockrell, Bacon, Blackburn, Gorman and Morgan.

The funeral will be held at the Church of the Unity, Worcester, on Monday at 2:30 p. m. The interment will be made in Sleepy Hollow cemetery, Concord, Tuesday morning.

WILL COST OVER $4,000,000.

New Battleship Connecticut Successfully Launched.

New York, Sept. 30.—Although successfully launched yesterday, the battleship Connecticut did not have the bottle of wine broken by Miss Alice B. Welles, who had been selected as sponsor for the ship. She threw the bottle at the bows as the ship began to move off the ways, but it failed to break when it struck the vessel's side.

Rear Admiral Rodgers attempted to grasp the bottle as it rebounded, but failed, and the ship was moving off into the water when a workman on the deck seized the string that held the bottle and dashed the glass receptacle of the champagne against the side of the ship, shattering it to pieces, to the relief of the superstitious.

The Connecticut is of steel with a trial displacement of 16,000 tons and a maximum displacement of 17,770 tons. The vessel is 450 feet on the load water line, 456.4 feet over all, 76.10 feet beam and 24.6 feet draught.

Her armament will consist of four 12-inch breech loading guns, one pair in the forward turret, and another aft; and eight 8-inch guns mounted in pairs in four turrets on the superstructure. In the main deck battery there will be 12 7-inch rapid-fire guns, mounted six to a broadside. In addition there will be 12 14-pounders, 12 three-pounders, six one-pound automatic guns, two one-pound semi-automatic, and eight 30-inch machine guns.

The Connecticut when in commission will carry 42 officers and 761 men. She is not to exceed $4,212,000 in cost.

Indicted for "Grafting."

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 30.—As the result of District Attorney Coatsworth's investigation of charges of alleged "grafting" on the part of city officials, three present aldermen and four former aldermen have been indicted. All the indicted men were arraigned in court yesterday and pleaded not guilty. Bail was fixed at $1,500 each and was furnished by all.

Sophomores Pummelled Freshmen.

New York, Sept. 30.—The freshman class of Columbia university gathered for the first time in its hisotry last night to hold a vaudeville entertainment. They held the entertainment in Terrace garden and imprisoned 16 sophomores meanwhile. Then 300 sophomores attacked the hall, forced an entrance and beat the 200 freshmen until the police reserves put an end to the pummelling. Clothing was torn and hats were smashed, and many noses bled, but the police would not make any arrests. The hall was considerably damaged.

New Tourist Sleeping Car Service to California.

On August 15th the Missouri Pacific Railway will establish a daily through Tourist Sleeping Car Line, St. Louis to San Francisco. Train will leave St. Louis daily 11:59 p. m. The route will be via Missouri Pacific Railway to Pueblo, Colorado, thence via Denver and Rio Grande to Salt Lake City and Ogden and Southern Pacific to San Francisco and Los Angeles. This is the famous scenic line of the world—through the picturesque Rocky Mountains. The service and accommodations will be up to date and will be personally conducted.

Very low rates will be in effect from August 15th to September 10th via Missouri Pacific Railway to the principal Pacific Coast points and return. Also Low Rate Colonist one way tickets will be sold from September 15th to October 15th. Time-Honored Truth.

"Wisdom is better than rubies," declared Solomon. And now, some centuries later, this opinion has been confirmed in Germany where they manufacture by chemical process, while you wait, a just-as-good article in this line of gems at a price within the reach of all—or nearly all. How much better wisdom is than rubies is shown by the fact that wisdom can now make rubies, while whole oodles of rubies have failed in numerous recorded instances to make a man wise.—Indianapolis News.

THEATER OF WAR

JAPS LOST 7,000 Men.

Che Foo, Sept. 29.—Russians residing here claim to have received information that the Japanese losses in the last assault on Port Arthur, which began September 19, were 7,000.

A Chinese who left the fortress on September 26 says that the Russian losses were between 500 and 600.

This Chinaman says that the Japanese were unable to remain in the three supplementary forts which they captured and that they retired on the afternoon of September 26, after enduring several days of tremendous firing from the inner forts.

Chinese say that the most severe attacks were made on the supplementary forts of the Itz and Anshu mountain forts. The Russians had undermined the ground and several hundred Japanese were blown up on September 23. Reports received from the Miaotao Islands mention a terrific report which shook the houses there on that date.

London, Sept. 29.—A dispatch from Vladivostok says that according to reports from Port Arthur two Japanese torpedo boats and a Japanese steamer have been sunk by mines near Port Arthur during the last few days. A Japanese cruiser was badly damaged.

St. Petersburg, Sept. 29.—Movements at the front, so far as disclosed by the meagre dispatches received here, are confined almost to continuous outpost skirmishes by means of which Gen. Kuropatkin is keeping in close touch with the Japanese along the whole of their front. Field Marshal Oyama's advance appears to be extremely deliberate. There are no indications as yet that he has begun to overlap Russian positions.

RUSSIANS RETREATED AGAIN.

The Japanese have again resumed the offensive and Thursday's dispatches indicate that sharp fighting may soon be expected southeast of Mukden. St. Petersburg hears that the Japanese have taken Da Pass, a strategic point in the mountain range about 40 miles southeast of Mukden. Several other passes are now in their hands. It is believed in St. Petersburg that Kuropatkin is withdrawing his force to the less rugged country to the northwest of Mukden, where he may decide to give battle. Japan has amended her conscription regulations in a manner which will increase her available fighting force by about 200,000 men. A new scheme of divisional organization is also contemplated.

London, Sept. 30.—Telegraphing from New Chwang, September 29, the Daily Mail's correspondent says:

"The main force of the Russian army has retired to the north of Mukden. Strong bodies of troops have been thrown out to defend both flanks and the southern approaches to the city have been carefully mined. The indications are that no serious attempt will be made to hold Mukden."

St. Petersburg, Sept. 30.—A special dispatch received here from Che Foo says three Japanese warships are blockading Che Foo. This evidently is under an agreement with China, in order to prevent the possibility of any of the ships of the Port Arthur squadron seeking refuge at Che Foo.

Communication with Mukden has been practically suspended, and St. Petersburg is therefore suffering another period of anxiety and suspense, just when the intimation had been given that important developments were imminent between the armies of Gen. Kuropatkin and Field Marshal Oyama.

JAPS' ATTACKS REPULSED.

London, Oct. 1.—According to the Morning Post's Shanghai correspondent it is reported there that the Japanese have been victorious in a general engagement at Mukden.

Mukden, Oct. 1.—A great change in the situation here has occurred. The Japanese now appear anxious to act on the defensive, and have fortified a position northwest of the Yentai mines.

According to the best estimates obtainable, the Japanese army confronting Gen. Kuropatkin comprises a grand total of 180 battalions. Allowing 800 men to a battalion, there are 144,000 infantry. In addition there are 6,300 cavalry and 638 guns.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 1.—In view of the fact that advices have been received from the Russian consulate at Che Foo saying the Japanese assaults on Port Arthur September 20 to September 26 were successfully beaten off, the authorities at the war office discredit the Che Foo report that the Japanese have captured the main forts at Port Arthur. The information of the war office proves that the Japanese losses during the siege have been 45,000 killed or wounded.

Gen. Sakharoff reports that between September 16 and September 29 there were several skirmishes in the Yentai district, all of which resulted favorably to the Russians. The Japanese advance posts before Yentai Station, Gen. Sakharoff adds, have been reinforced. On September 28 a strong vanguard of Japanese was encountered on the Mandarin road and driven back to Yentai, losing 20 in killed and wounded.

Conditions at Mukden are bad. There are 30,000 refugees there without resources and in the deepest poverty.

Parker and Gorman Confer.

New York, Oct. 1.—Judge Parker took the 6:45 train last night from Weehawken for Esopus. He is expected to return here next Monday. Senator Gorman, of Maryland, visited the judge yesterday, and during the hour he spent with the democratic nominee they went over together all that has been done during the campaign and all that has been contemplated. Their discussion, it is said, had to do largely with the reconciliations among the many elements of the democratic party which have not been in harmony.

MANY FAMILIES HOMELESS.

Trinidad, Col., Under Water, Due from Heavy Rains.

Trinidad, Col., Oct. 1.—A terrific flood has struck the city of Trinidad and the whole valley along the Las Animas river, devastating a wide section and causing a loss which will reach several hundred thousand dollars. So far as known there was no loss of life, but several are reported missing and there were many narrow escapes.

Every bridge in the city of Trinidad is out, the Santa Fe station is demolished, all the railroads are tied up and the telephone service completely suspended. More than 30 city blocks in the residence and business portion were from two to four feet under water along the river. The flood was caused by a heavy rain which has been falling for two days.

At 8 o'clock Thursday night the storm assumed cloudburst proportions and at 2 o'clock Friday morning the Las Animas river went over its banks. At 3:30 it was impossible to get within a block of the river bed at any point and Commercial street was flooded for three blocks in the heart of the business district. Meantime the electric light and gas plants had been flooded and the city was in complete darkness.

Santa Fe, N. M., Oct. 1.—Railroad traffic in New Mexico is at a standstill owing to heavy rains. Every one of the three railroads centering at Santa Fe is washed out. No train has arrived since Thursday afternoon and all the wires are down. The washouts are the worst west of Albuquerque and between Albuquerque and El Paso. All telegraph wires in this city are down. Many bridges were carried away by the flood.. No loss of life is reported, but property damage throughout the territory is heavy.

TRADE BULLETIN.

Indications of Growing Confidence are Numerous and Labor Disputes are Decreasing.

New York, Oct. 1.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

The last quarter of 1904 opens with much brighter prospects than prevailed a year ago. At that time securities had fallen an average of $34 a share from the top point a year previous, and there was a general disposition to curtail manufacturing and commercial operations because of the heavy losses. The nation was entering on a period of conservatism, augmented by numerous labor controversies.

At the present time there are no alarming features, strikes are few and unimportant, while the indications of growing confidence are numerous. Business does not show the hesitation customary during the closing weeks of a presidential campaign, and the prospect of profitable agricultural results stimulates trade, especially among retailers at the west and south. Building operations are expanding, providing a better demand for lumber and materials. Manufacturing plants are decreasing the proportion of idle machinery.

Failures this week numbered 223 in the United States, against 226 last year, and 18 in Canada compared with 10 a year ago.

A STUBBORN BLAZE.

Dozens of Firemen Were Overcome by a Fire that Raged for Hours in New York City.

New York, Oct. 1.—After 22 hours' fighting of a fire that proved to be one of the worst the New York department has had to contend with for years, Chief Croker last night at 8 o'clock called all the men and apparatus away from the ruins of a block of meat packing and refrigerating plants in West Fourteenth street, leaving but one engine and a fire boat to water down the smouldering heaps. The fire started Thursday night in a building occupied by the Cudahy Packing Co. and T. A. Wheeler & Co. and Conroy & Co., dealers in poultry. Besides this building it practically destroyed the hotel of D. F. Cunningham and two four-story houses occupied by T. A. Wheeler & Co. and G. H. Hammond & Co. The loss is about $200,000.

During the fire nearly all of the 150 men who were engaged in fighting it were either overcome by the fumes of ammonia, of which there were a number of tanks in the refrigerating plants, or by the smothering clouds of smoke that arose from tons of coal in the Cudahy cellars. When the ammonia tanks exploded firemen were mowed down as though by reapers.

MAIL POUCHES WERE LOOTED.

A Mysterious Robbery on a Train Running Between Paris and Havre, France.

Paris, Oct. 1.—A bold robbery was committed Thursday evening on a mail car between Paris and Havre, containing a quantity of American mail. The train which left here at midnight had two mail cars. The first was an ordinary mail car, in which the distribution was going on. The second car was entirely given up to mail for the United States. There were about 100 mail pouches on this car, which was sealed and locked. On arriving at Rouen Friday morning it was found that the American mail car had been broken open and that the pouches were in great disorder. Ninety-one bags had been opened and their contents rifled of such valuables as they may have contained.

The robbery was reported to the postal headquarters here and a number of inspectors will investigate it.

Production of Gold and Silver.

Washington, Oct. 1.—George E. Roberts, director of the mint, has completed his calculation of the production of gold and silver in the United States for the calendar year 1903. The figures for the United States show $73,591,700 gold and $29,322,000 silver. The total output of gold shows a decline of $6,400,000 and of silver a decline of 1,200,000 ounces from the figures of the previous year. The falling off in both metals is almost entirely due, according to Mr. Roberts, to labor troubles in Colorado.

Two Political Tendencies.

To the superficial view liberty presents a negative aspect only, and it is this negative aspect that is emphasized in the Democratic conception of liberty. In the ideal "state of nature" which existed in the imagination of Locke and Rousseau, such a thing as a government had no place. So thoroughly was Thomas Jefferson imbued with this way of thinking that he could hardly be brought to assert even that the people should govern. His theoretical view approached closely to anarchism. According to this way of thinking, perfect freedom can be realized only when there is an entire absence of external restraint. It is only fair to say that this theory was not promulgated in the idterest of caprice and license. Like the grace of God, it might be turned into lasciviousness, as was done by the Independent a few weeks ago when we attempted to give a statement of this political conception; but this was not the intent of such men as Locke and Jefferson. Indeed we should all agree that if the only function of government is the performance of police duty, the occupation of a government would be gone the instant that all the citizens became just. Jefferson and the school of thought which he represented admitted that men are not all just and that consequently a certain degree of external restraint is necessary for the maintenance of peace and order. But he also held that mankind in general is more just and reasonable than was commonly believed by the ruling classes, and that the crying need of the world was for less governmental restraint. He was in his element when he drafted the Declaration of Independence for that immortal document is not a statement of what a government should do, but of what it should not do. When it came to the adoption of a Federal Constitution, Jefferson's school sought in every way to have the powers of the federal government kept down to the lowest possible notch. In order to weaken the power and dignity of the federal government as much as possible, they emphasized the sovereignty of the States and the powers of the State governments. This they did, not because they loved the state governments as such, but because they saw in them a bulwark to protect individual rights against the encroachments of the federal power.

The Constitution gave the federal government stronger powers than Jefferson was willing to concede to it, but as he thought that there was greater danger of the government going beyond, rather than coming short of, constitutional provisions, he concluded that it was the part of wisdom to see that the administration of the government should be held down to the express and strict terms of the Constitution. Strict construction of the Constitution has always been in the interest, not of strengthening, but of limiting and weakening, the powers of the Federal Government.

From the very foundation of our nation there has existed another political tendency and school of thought. The classic representative of this school was Alexander Hamilton. He held that government has other proper functions than merely to maintain peace and order. He held that liberty has a positive and not merely a negative aspect, that it is not mere freedom from restraint and tyranny, but that it is the enjoyment of the best advantages for development and progress and the realization of a positive destiny. The Declaration of Independence is very well in its place, but the Nation cannot live, the government cannot stand, on mere negations. Our Constitution is something more than a protest against British tyranny, it is something greater than a mere provision to restrain internal riot and rapine. It is an expression of the Nation's consciousness of itself, of its positive powers and destiny, and it is a provision for the accomplishment and performance of such things as a people can realize only in a collective and organized capacity. The Constitution is not a mere letter: it is imbued with a most real and vital spirit, the spirit of the Nation's life and destiny. It is in accordance with, and in fulfilment of, the spirit of the Constitution that those charged with the administration of the government should be actively alive to every new national need and every new national opportunity. It is in fulfilment of the spirit of the Constitution that the government should inaugurate and maintain such policies as are effective for the positive upbuilding and strengthening of the Nation's life.

Which of these tendencies shall we share and endorse? Shall we say that the powers of government should be reduced? Shall we say that a protective tariff is unconstitutional as well as a robbery? Shall we say that the Nation through its organized and responsible government must not recognize the growing needs, the larger duties, the increased opportunities with which in each new decade it is confronted? If so, our place is in the Democratic party, where our backs may ever be turned towards the rising sun, where we may find cotton in plenty wherewith to stuff our ears against the calls of progress and duty, and where we may bark in the atmosphere of negation and failure that is so dear to our souls.

Bryan mentioned sixteen reasons for opposing Judge Parker and only one for supporting him. Mr. Bryan is still true to the sacred ratio.

The most disheartening feature of the political situation, for the Democrats, is that the people seem to be doing their own thinking.

The Democratic wheel of fortune is badly in need of oiling and even such an expert as Tom Taggart has not been able to make it run without emitting nerve-wrecking sounds.

John Sharp Williams double locks the ballot box in his district where the colored voters should be permitted to cast their votes and then comes north to plead for the franchise of the Filipino.

The only important piece of legislation for which the Democrats have been responsible since the Republican Party first came into power, is now repudiated by the rank and file of the supporters of David B. Hill's friend.

Tom Taggart is in bad order with the Democratic leaders on account of his inability to show that it was H. G. Davis' barrel and not H. G. Davis that was nominated for the Vice-Presidency at St. Louis.

Senator Gorman has been summoned to New York as a Democratic guide. It is pretty certain, however, that the party is so thoroughly lost that not even expert Gorman can show it the way out of the woods.

Democrats in the House of Representatives are always as badly divided as their leaders are. The free silver, free trade contingent, however, is always in the majority.

In an attempt to misrepresent the Republican position on the Philippines, the Democrats have only succeeded in misrepresenting their own and exposing their lack of any intelligent plan for the treatment of that question.

The most discouraging feature of the situation for the Democrats is the generally conceded fact that the election is to be decided by thinking people.

Democrats are censuring Tom Watson for saying just the things that Mr. Bryan and all of the Democratic Congressmen said four years ago and which they promise to resume saying as soon as Judge Parker is defeated in November.

One of the surprises of the present campaigh is the way Senator Fairbanks has grown into the respect and affection of the people. Never for a moment surrendering the dignity of his position, is a good mixer and the people are glad to meet and he is glad to meet the people. Employing none of the tricks of oratory, he appeals to the sober judgment of the people and forces conviction home to those who hear him. Never, by word or reference does he attack the personality of any opponent, he speaks respectfully of the Democratic party, and yet before he is through with the principles for which he stands, he makes it look like thirty cents. He ranks high among the statesmen of the State that has given to the Nation such men as Morton and Harrison.

If the pension order was illegal, why has not some patriotic Democrat taken steps to have it set aside by the courts.

It is an insult to the American voter to try to convince him that he does not know the difference between Republican performance and Democratic promise.

Don't Remove a Shingle.

Under the stimulus and with the protection of wise legislation in Congress, inaugurated by the Republican party, the country has made great progress in material ways in the past ten years. It has required ten years to bring us to our present condition of prosperity. The voters must realize that a considerable portion of that ten years' work could be undone, practically, in the few moments of time required to cast a Democratic ballot for Congressman and President, if it should turn out that a majority of the votes cast were Democratic.

Every one knows it is easier to tear down than to build. It is so in politics as well as in physics. The voters who have built up the Republican legislative structure should be careful that they don't remove so much as a shingle from the roof, this fall. And that admonition applies as well to the independent and the gold Democrat as to the Republican, for it was through their united efforts that a Republican Congress has been maintained in power long enough to accomplish this work.

All of which means that the wisest course is to elect a Republican House of Representatives this fall.

Democratic candidates for Congress may denounce the Republicans Philippine policy but they never have courage to quote the record of the Democrats of the House on the disposition of Philippine problems.

Rules for the Government of the State Forestry Reservation Lands.

(Adopted by Resolution by the State Forestry Reservation Commission, August 5, 1904.)

1. The game and fish laws of the State must not be violated.
2. Birds' nests must not be destroyed or in any other manner interfered with.
3. Open camp fires or other fires must not be made, except in a hole or pit one foot deep, encircling the pit so made by the earth taken out.
4. Every camp fire or other open fire most be absolutely extinguished before the last member of the party using it leaves the locality.
5. Lighted matches must not be thrown upon the ground. In every case they must be allowed to burn out or be otherwise extinguished.
6. Living trees must not be cut down or injured in any manner. Dead and down timber may be used for camp fires.
7. No person will be permitted to erect a camp who has not accepted in writing the camping rules and received a camping permit.
8. Every person receiving a camping permit must report to the Commissioner of Forestry at Harrisburg, any violation of law or of the rules for the government of the State Forestry Reservation Lands, coming under his observation.
9. No permanent camp or other structure may be erected on the Reservation.
10. The pre-emption of any ground as a special camp site to the exclusion of others who may desire to camp near, and who have permission to camp on State Lands, will not be permitted.
11. All persons who desire to picnic upon the State Forestry Reservation Lands, remaining for a less time than a day, and not over night, are not regarded as campers and will not be required to procure a camping permit, but will be governed in all other respects by these rules.
12. During the month of November in each year, no dog of any description shall be used for hunting purposes on the State Forestry Reservation Lands, nor shall any such dog during that month be taken by hunters into camps on said lands.
13. The making of fires by hunters who stand on deer or other "runways" is forbidden.
14. The placing of advertisements on the State Forestry Reservation Lands is prohibited.
15. Superintendents, wardens, detectives, and all other Reservation employees are required to remove immediately from State Lands all persons who take deer running dogs thereon, and to kill the dogs when found in pursuit of deer. They are also required to remove therefrom all persons who do not properly guard their camp or other fires so as to prevent destruction of State property by the starting of genaral forest fires, or campers who do not have proper camping permits.

All persons who desire to camp upon the State Forestry Reservation Lands must first apply to the Commissioner of Forestry. A blank application containing the rules for the government of campers will be forwarded to the applicant, who must sign and return the same to the Commissioner. If in proper form, in the absence of other objections, a permit will then be granted.

Persons who violate the laws or any of the above rules will subject themselves to immediate arrest without warrant, to be dealt with according to law; and may be denied all future privileges of camping, hunting, or fishing on the State Forestry Reservation Lands.

All State Forestry Reservation employees, without first procuring a warrant, are vested by Act of Assembly with power to arrest on view all persons detected by them in the act of trespassing upon any forest or timber land within the Commonwealth, under such circumstances as to warrant the reasonable suspicion that such persons have committed, are committing, or are about to commit some offense against any of the laws now enacted or hereafter to be enacted for the protection of forest and timber lands. They are likewise vested with similar powers of arrest in the case of offenses against these Rules, or for offenses committed against the laws for the protection of the fish and game found within the State Forestry Reservations.

All constables are requested, in case fire occurs within their townships, to notify the constables of the adjacent townships toward which the fire is traveling.

A Continual Strain.

Many men and women are constantly subjected to what they commonly term "a continual strain" because of some financial or family trouble. It wears and distresses them both mentally and physically, affecting their nerves badly and bringing on liver and kidney ailments, with the attendant evils of constipation, loss of appetite, sleeplessness, low vitality and dispondency. They cannot, as a rule, get ride of this "continual strain," but they can remedy its health destroying effects by taking frequent doses of Green's August Flower. It tones up the liver, stimulates the kidneys, insures healthy bodily functions, gives vim and spirit to one's whole being, and eventually dispels the physical or mental distress caused by that "continual strain." Trial bottle of August Flower, 25c; regular size, 75. At all druggists

Emporium, Pa.

Dear Sir: Devoe is worth $4 or $5 a gallon, put-on; how much is another paint worth?

Depends on how many gallons you've got to put-on, to be equal to one of Devoe.

Mr. J. J. Hall, Sheffield, Pa., painted two houses one coat, five years ago, lead-and-oil, took 40 gallons.

Last summer bought 40 gallons Devoe for same houses; had 10 gallons left.

Mr. N. Avery, Delhi, N. Y., owns two houses exactly alike; painted one with Devoe; took 6 gallons. The other with some other; took 12 gallons.

What'd you give for those off paints? Bear in mind, you've got to pay for the painting.

Yours truly,

UNDERTAKING

BY-O-LO.

Baby, wonder-eyed and wee,
Lying on your mother's knee
As the evening shadows fall,
As the homing-birdies call,
List'ning to your mother croon,
That old, world-old, by-lo tune,
In the years to come they'll seem
Like the mem'ry of a dream;
Mother singing "by-lo-by."
And your father standing nigh,
And the casement opened wide
To the sky where high doth ride
The pale moon that yestere'en
You did cry to hold between
Your wee hands. Dear, you'll recall
As a dream the night and all.

You'll recall, dear, how you lay
In her arms at close of day,
And the rocking to and fro,
And the tuneful by-o-lo,
Just as I who look on you,
Just as I who hear you coo,
Do remember how I laid
In my mother's arms, and prayed
At her knee when night came down
Over hill and mead and town;
How my father tall and strong
Held me; how I heard the song,
That same song—now you're asleep.
God in Heaven, watch and keep
This our baby—to and fro—
In the land of By-o-lo.

LANDRY'S LETTER

By GRACE G. BOSTWICK

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

I FELT horribly sorry for Katherine when Landry died. It must have been an awful blow, for she seemed to lose every bit of her spirit and went about pale and listless for months.

You see, Landry was a fine fellow, an unusual fellow. I don't believe there was a selfish fiber in the man's whole make-up. He was essentially big-hearted and lovable. Homely in feature to positive ugliness, he was still attractive in appearance. He was famous in a small way as the author of certain delicate love sketches, very tender and dainty in sentiment, and so unlike him as to seem inconsistent with what we knew of his character. A right jolly good fellow, with plenty of sense and a cheerful lot of brains under his sandy poll.

He and Kit had been engaged for a long time, and I knew that he fairly worshiped her, though he was very quiet about it. I felt a mild sort of envy, for I had never plumbed the depths of love myself. I'd had my little affairs, but I always hated myself during their progress, because I couldn't really feel—I was only amused and entertained, never touched. My friendship with Kit was the one real sentiment of my life, for we had been like brother and sister for ten years. Ever since she had begun to yearn for long skirts and put her pig-tails up into the crown of womanly dignity. Whenever Landry was away I took his place at her side, and jolly good times we had, and many of them.

A few months before Landry's death Kit semed to change some way. She took to mooning about for all the world like a disappointed lover. Landry, too, went into the dumps. He grew thin and pale and more impersonal than ever. He was very tender with Katherine, and so I knew that it was no lover's quarrel that was wearing on them. She sort of clung to him as though she felt him slipping from her, and I've sometimes thought since that she must have had a premonition of what was coming.

One morning, on my way home from an all-night vigil, old Damon lost his head and I came a pretty cropper. It wasn't far from home, as luck would have it, and I managed to get to the house. I was pretty much used up, taking my weariness and the shaking-up together and my knees shook as if I'd been officiating at my first operation. Afterward, when Kit came in to see me, I tried to laugh it off, and I jollied her up.

"Landry 'll be good and jealous if you don't watch out,' I told her. "I believe you're in love with me, old girl." Her face flamed a sudden crimson over its old pallor, and she looked at me sharply. Then I caught her hand and pulled her down to me. I kissed her, as I always had, and for a moment she laid her face against my cheek.

"What if you'd been killed?" she whispered. "What if you'd been killed?"

"You'd still have Landry," I retorted, and Kit slapped me. It wasn't the first time by any means, for you see we'd been boy and girl together. I couldn't help seeing that her eyes looked funny. A new expression, I'd never seen there before—and I wondered.

It was shortly after that poor Landry came down with typhoid. It was a hard case from the start. Sometimes it gets a grip on a man and an M. D. can see that there's no hope whatever. Thank goodness, we were all there with him. He wasn't alone, as he had been the greater part of his life—since he'd been a little chap, in fact. He wasn't lonely. Sometimes it seemed to me that he was happier than I had ever seen him. I felt that he was glad to go, and I couldn't understand it. It broke us all up, every one of us, for we loved the poor fellow.

I found her on the veranda one evening, alone in the soft darkness. I felt a bit down myself. Things weren't going very well, and I began to think that I was not fitted for a professional life after all. I felt too sorry for my patients. I couldn't give a judicial, impersonal sympathy, as a physician must to be among the ranks of the successful. Every death that came under my notice worked on my mind to such a degree that it unfitted me to care for the living.

She took my hand and held it tightly in both of her own. I felt a sudden tightening at my heartstrings, and a rush of tenderness swept over me.

"Lonely, old girl?" I asked softly.

"Oh, so lonely, Freddy—so lonely—you can't know," and she drew my hand up to her face and leaned her lips upon it.

"Poor heart," I said, and I bent and laid a gentle kiss on her forehead. She turned her pale, luminous face up to me, wistfully, like a child, and I kissed her warm, red mouth. Then my heart began thumping like a hydraulic ram and my hands trembled strangely. I tried to steady them. She would be so angry if she thought that I dared. I had kissed Katherine numberless times, as a man may kiss his sister, lovingly, tenderly, but absolutely without a thrill. They had never been like this. I was at a loss. I had never dreamed of Katherine except as my dear old friend—my manhood chum, and as for her—my heart sank, for I knew she had been utterly devoted to old Landry and mourned passionately for him. At least I thought so. If she knew what I was thinking she would hate me—loathe me, forever. If she knew—ah, if she knew. She sat there dreaming, her eyes, as I thought, on memory's distant mountain peaks; her dear, warm, brown eyes that I loved.

She turned to me with a little laugh.

"It's so nice to be loved a little," she said, as she nestled against my coat, as if she belonged there. I fought with myself a moment. She must have felt my heart beating. I was horribly ashamed. Then I suddenly lost my self-control, and stooping toward her, I took her in my arms and kissed her passionately, many, many times, passionately, eagerly, as I had never kissed anyone in my life—as I had never wanted to kiss anyone before. After a time I lifted my head and waited for the storm. I knew it must come. I felt like a whipped cur, though every pulse in my body throbbed with delight and joy. Whatever came, I knew now. I was blind no longer. They talk of love being blind. I say it's the other way about; it's love that clears our sight—so we can really see where we have always before being groping in a dim half-light.

She nestled closer in my arms and laughed a little, low laugh of contentment.

"Oh, Freddy, boy," she said, "I thought you would never wake up. I've been such a long, long time waiting to come home."

I started back and faced her in amazement.

"And—and Landry?" I faltered.

"Oh, my dear, I never loved Landry." (Ah, so I knew now why he was glad to go, poor duffer, poor, unselfish, loving old duffer.)

"He knew I didn't, but he—he—cared, and he knew I loved you, so he helped me. He told me you loved me, only you were asleep, and I've waited so long—so long for this," she sighed, happily.

I looked in her eyes incredulously.

"Kit, why in the name of common sense didn't you tell me?"

"Tell you? Freddy, how could I? I wasn't sure you—you cared, and sometimes I was sure you didn't. It was only because Landry was so positive that I dared to hope. I could only wait in silence, and since Landry died it has been so lonely, so drearily lonely."

"Poor old girl," I said in her hair, "poor darling old girl."

"You've lost a whole year," she cried, "a whole year."

"Then you knew a year ago?"

"Yes; it's funny, Freddy, but I couldn't imagine why no man ever moved me the least tiny bit. When Landry told me he cared, I tried to think I loved him, but he said then that I didn't, and afterward, he knew it was you. He watched my eyes, he said, when you were about, and when he told me that, I was as astonished as you were when I told you.

"When your horse threw you that time, then I knew beyond a doubt, for I suffered agonies thinking what might have happened. You were so ghastly that I was horribly frightened. I felt sure that you were at least maimed for life."

And then, she brought me the letter—Landry's letter, that was not to be delivered until I had found my own. Oh, that letter. If I had only seen it when Landry died. Kit would not have grown pale waiting for what was always hers.

"You confounded blind old bat," he wrote, "what in the name of all that's holy, do you stay around here for? If I was such an egregrious donkey as you are I'd go off and die, but I've got to be the one instead—and I've got eyes to see. That's ever the way in this vale of tears.

"Well, you must know some time. It will come to you all at once, as the knowledge of it came to me—then, old boy, I wouldn't mind being in your boots. I'd give my life for that one hour as happily and freely as I'd toss a copper to a pickaninny. It can't be—so I give you my blessing and what little I can add to your future—though, of course, you know, I mean hers—and that is the fortune that I haven't been able to squander with all my idle worthlessness. Make her happy with it, if you can, and so I shall know I have a hand in her comfort after all.

"You weren't cut out for a pill-doper, old man. Drop it. Well, so long. 'Take keer of yerself,' and be good to her to make up for your cussed stupidity. Landry."

The name stared up at us in his well-known writing, and suddenly, an overpowering sense of his nearness mastered me. Kit reached out a trembling hand. I felt a shudder go over her and a mist obscured my sight for a moment. Then:

"Yes, yes," I heard her whisper, faintly, "I see you, dear, dear Landry."

USEFUL LITTLE STRUCTURE

A Combination Self-Feeder Which Has Approval of Many Thrifty Western Farmers.

Many claim that feeders adapted to the regular issue of grain are better for stock than the adjustable self-feeders which place feed before the cattle at all times. Where a given ration may be fed, the cattle are allowed to eat it all out clean. Feeding steers slobber more or less in the feed, and where there is a surplus always on hand, there is more or less wasted. Where feed is placed in trough fresh for each meal the cattle seem to eat it more readily. The cut, No. 1, shows end plan, which is the same on both sides, with feeding troughs on side and rolling door providing a driveway for feeding wagon.

The ground plan shown in cut No. 2 indicates the feed troughs on each side. The one at the left of driveway is used to feed direct from wagon. That on the right receives supply of feed from the three bins of shelled corn each ten by ten feet. By adjusting the feeding gates on the self-feeding troughs, only a partial ration may be delivered, and the trough to the left used to supply any deficiency as required.—T. D. Gayle, in Farm and Home.

SUGAR AND MOLASSES DIET

Reports from Abroad Are to the Effect That as a Bone Strengthener It Is a Success.

The use of sugar and molasses for cattle and horse feeding is gaining in popularity. Laws in many European countries have been changed exempting these products from taxation when they are to be used for feeding purposes. When recently in Paris, our attention was called to certain facts that may be interesting to our readers. The Omnibus company of the French capital owns over 10,000 horses, and as out of that number there are about 700 broken legs per annum, it was argued that possibly these accidents were in a measure due to some faulty combination of the daily rations.

In 1901 the first experiments were made, the one kilogram of sour mash that had hitherto been used being substituted by an alkaline molasses combination. The results obtained were encouraging beyond the most sanguine expectations, and in 1902 the number of broken legs was only 79.

It was concluded that the extreme fragility of the animals' bony structure was due to the absence of the requisite mineral elements in their rations. There appears to be ample medical authority for asserting that heavy consumers of sugar, in cases of bone fracture, will recover more rapidly than when that article of luxury is eaten in moderation. In some hospitals, patients that are laid up with compound fractures of legs or arms receive in addition to their regular food allowance 150 grams of sugar, the cost of which is soon covered by the lesser period needed for the complete healing of the bony tissue.—Sugar Beet.

Preventing Scours in Pigs.

Nothing is better for preventing scours in pigs than some crushed oat and barley slop run through a screen to remove most of the hulls which should be placed in a low trough in a corner of the pen. The young pigs go for this greedily. At two months old they are ready to wean, when they should be put in two large pens, culling out the weaker ones and putting them in pens made vacant by grouping three agreeable sows. Much more skill is required to raise young pigs in winter than in summer. After taking them away from their dams feed warm new milk for the first meal and after that warm skim milk with a good sprinkling of shorts in it, increasing the quantity each day until about the consistency of thin porridge. A good way is to mix a quart of oil meal with each barrel of feed and have a box in the corner of each pen containing wood ashes, charcoal and a little salt and sulphur.—Rural World.

GENERAL FARM NOTES.

Overchurning is one cause of butter not keeping.

In feeding dusty hay, shake well and dampen before feeding.

See that there is sufficient shade in every pasture for the stock.

A poverty-stricken cow must first of all supply the wants of her system before she can possibly give rich milk and plenty of it.

The cheapest way to produce pork is to push the pigs from the start, and get them ready for market at not to exceed nine months.

Every careful experiment has shown that the gain is greater in proportion to food consumed in the young animal than in the older ones.

Steady work of any kind is fatiguing, and although the change may not be for lighter work, it may be restful and refreshing for the teams.

ARTISTIC FLOWER STANDS.

Late Designs in Garden and Conservatory Decorations Add to the Beauty of the Plants.

The application of the artistic to the useful, the movement begun by Ruskin and Morris, has finally entered the field of garden and conservatory decorations, where it might be imagined from their constant associations with beauty that such ideas would have emanated.

The Chicago Journal says that in place of the ugly, unadorned clay pots or their still uglier ornamentations of frilled crepe and tissue paper, or the old style of painted washtubs in use in conservatories, are now set upon bronze stands tubs of highly polished woods, birded by hoops of brass.

The shapes vary, ovals, squares, rectangles and circles being employed according to their fitness to the plants they hold. Some of the designs in the bronze work are quaint. Although many are original, others are reproductions of medieval work. The lack of monotony is favorable compared to the old styles.

One conservatory varies these artistic novelties with wicker baskets of divers designs, that inclose the clay pots closely, painted green or white, their lighter colorings making a pleasing contrast under the brilliancy of the flowers and the shining green colorings of the leaves, to the black Chinee teakwood and reddish bronze of these new plant-holders.

A rhodendron in a teakwood tub, with green bronze hoops and supports, is the most admired of all the plants in a north side conservatory.

Something Quite Unusual.

Little Bessie was so accustomed to seeing the baby crawl around the room on his hands and knees that she thought it was his natural mode of traveling. One day he succeeded in standing up with the aid of a chair and Bessie, very much astonished, ran to her mother and exclaimed: "Oh, mamma, come quick! Baby is standing up on his hind legs."

THE NEAT GIRL'S SECRET.

It Consists in Nothing More or Less Than the Proper Care of All of Her Clothes.

We all have among our acquaintances the girl, who, without being in the least good-looking, always manages to look neat and well dressed. Perhaps she has only a small dress allowance, and whenever you happen to meet her she looks smart and attractive, while other girls with twice the money at their command too often look shabby and dowdy.

What is the neat girl's secret? Nothing more or less, says the New York Weekly, than taking care of her clothes; she has a place for everything, and everything is kept in its place, her ribbons, gloves, handkerchiefs, veils, etc., are not all huddled together in one drawer, neither do they lie about on the tables and chairs until they are wanted. Every article of apparel is put away with the most scrupulous care, first being dusted, shaken or mended as the case may be.

There is a great difference, too, in the way in which girls put on their clothes, and very often a girl dressed in a shirt waist and plain skirt will look twice as neat as one clad in a $50 gown, the reason being simply and solely this: The one has put her dress on anyhow, the other has taken care that all shall be neat and fresh.

It is the duty of all parents to see that their children are taught from their babyhood, to take proper care of their wearing apparel; for the child who lets her clothes drop off her and tie in a heap on the floor invariably grows into the careless, untidy woman with whom we are so familiar.

FOR LOVERS OF NOVELTIES.

Cleverly Contrived Clocks Which Are Calculated to Attract Interest of the Public.

Ingenuity has of late been turned in the direction of clock making, with the result that a number of cleverly contrived timepieces are now in the market. One of these is the Plato clock without hands or dials. The hours and minutes are shown in large bold figures upon revolving flaps. The clock is wound and set as an ordinary clock; its special advantage lies in the fact that the time is seen instantly and from quite a long distance. The second ingenious novelty is an electrically propelled clock warranted to go for 12 months without interference. The battery, it is claimed, is easily replaced by any one. The clock stands on a base of solid wood and is covered with plate glass.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Curious Sect in England, Believing Social Life All Wrong, Returns to Primitive State.

An inquest held in Beeston, England, has developed the existence of a strange religious sect, entertaining tenets that they will not divulge.

For several years this sect, or brotherhood, had a sort of colony at Purleigh, in Essex, from which they were driven away, it is said, by the persecution of the people living in the district.

Within the last 12 months a branch has been established at Beeston, where the members have lived quietly and are well spoken of by the neighbors.

Both the men and women are clever boot and shoe repairers, and the women make something, in addition, by nursing and sewing. All money received goes into a common fund, said one in the course of an interview.

"We have made a kind of return to primitive Christianity. Social life today is based on an error of fundamental fraud, denial of the brotherhood of men leading to social caste.

"We repudiate all human law absolutely. We follow literally the precept, 'Judge not that ye be not judged.'"

New Kind of Rubber.

During the past few months discovery has been made that there are in the interior of Brazil vast forests of trees from which can be produced a high grade of rubber known as "manicoba." The area is said to be very large, but cannot be defined, as the region has not been fully explored. The attention called to the first discovery has led to further exploration, with the result that from time to time comes notice of other sections where like trees occur in profusion. The output of manicoba rubber has rapidly increased during the last few years and bids fair to be a large item in the exports of Brazil.

Aluminum Shoes for Horses.

In the Russian army aluminum horseshoes are said to have been tried with good results. A few horses in the Finland dragoons were first chosen, and shod with one aluminum shoe and three iron shoes each. The experiments showed that the aluminum shoes preserved the foot better than the iron ones.

Best of Backs Give Out Under the Burden of Daily Toil.

Lieut. George G. Warren, of No. 3 Chemical, Washington, D. C., says: "It's an honest fact that Doan's Kidney Pills did me a great lot of good, and if it were not true I would not recommend them. It was the strain of lifting that brought on kidney trouble and weakened my back, but since using Doan's Kidney Pills I have lifted six hundred pounds and felt no bad effects. I have not felt the trouble come back since, although I had suffered for five or six years, and other remedies had not helped me at all."

Many women are denied the happiness of children through derangement of the generative organs. Mrs. Beyer advises women to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered with stomach complaint for years. I got so bad that I could not carry my children but five months, then would have a miscarriage. The last time I became pregnant, my husband got me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking the first bottle I was relieved of the sickness of stomach, and began to feel better in every way. I continued its use and was enabled to carry my baby to maturity. I now have a nice baby girl, and can work better than I ever could before. I am like a new woman."—MRS. FRANK BEYER, 22 S. UNION MADE.

W. L. Douglas makes and sells more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world. The reason W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are the greatest sellers in the world is because of their excellent style, easy fitting and superior wearing qualities. If I could show you the difference between the shoes made in my factory and those of other makes and the high-grade leathers used, you would understand why W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes cost more to make, why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater intrinsic value than any other $3.50 shoe on the market to-day, and why the sales for the year ending July 1, 1904, were $6,263,040.00.

W. L. Douglas guarantees their value by stamping his name and price on the bottom. Look for it—take no substitute. Sold by shoe dealers everywhere. Fast Color Eyelets used Exclusively.

That Per Capita Tax.

EDITOR PRESS:—The question of school tax is so often raised that we request you to publish the following ruling of Attorney General:

OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL,
Harrisburg, Pa., July 15th, 1898.

HON. JOHN Q. STEWART,
Deputy Supt. of Public Instruction.

MY DEAR SIR:—

Your letter of July 9th, raises a question as to the proper construction of the Act of July 22nd, 1897 (P. L. 305). This Act is entitled "An Act to authorize and empower the school directors and controllers of the several school districts within this Commonwealth to levy and collect a per capita tax annually for school purposes," and in the first section provides that it shall be lawful for the school directors or school controllers of any city, borough or township within this Commonwealth to levy and collect annually a per capita tax of one dollar for school purposes from each and every male inhabitant of the age of twenty-one years and upwards within their respective districts. The third section of the Act provides that this per capita tax shall be in lieu of the occupation tax for school purposes.

Under the various Acts of Assembly prior to 1897 there were two classes of taxes for school purposes as follows:

1. That based on real estate and personal property, and

2. That based on trades, occupations, professions, &c., providing for a minimum occupation tax of one dollar in such cases where the rate on the valuation of occupation would not yield one dollar.

The Act of July 22, 1897, expressly provides that it shall in no wise limit or abridge the power of school directors or controllers to levy a tax on real and personal property for school and building purposes. It, therefore, does not in any manner seek to change or modify the method or rate of taxing real estate and personal property subject to such tax.

The precise question, then presented by your communication is, what is the effect of the Act of July 22, 1897, upon prior legislation so far as it relates to the levying and collecting of occupation tax?

When we remember that this Act is one affecting public interests and relating to public officers, and that it is, therefore, mandatory upon such public officers, we can have no doubt as to the legal effect thereof. The old laws provided one method of ascertaining the occupation tax, while the new Act provides a different one. Both cannot stand, and for this reason the later Act must be held to operate as a repeal of the former provision.

With these observations, you are advised that, under the laws, as modified by the Act of July 22, 1897, school boards have authority

1. To assess and levy taxes for school purposes upon real estate and personal property in the manner heretofore provided; and

2. To assess an occupation or per capita tax of one dollar upon each and every male inhabitant of the age of twenty-one years and upwards. This per capita tax is in lieu of the occupation tax levied under the old law, and the amount thereof cannot be exceeded in any case, no matter at what sum the occupation, trade or profession may have been valued by the assessor for State and county purposes.

Yours very respectfully,
(Signed) WILBUR F. REEDER,
Deputy Attorney General.

How to Retain Youth.

Middle aged and aged people can retain their youthfulness by keeping certain organs in a healthy condition. In a man the liver and kidneys will cause him to look, feel and act careworn. In a woman the liver and organs peculiar to her sex will give her a careworn, sallow, wrinkled look and dragged out feelings. All this can be avoided by Thompson's Barosma. It builds up and strengthens all those functions, giving renewed youth. Thompson's Barosma retains youth. For sale by R. C. Dodson.

Meekness is not mushiness.

Pill Pleasure.

If you ever took DeWitt's Little Early Riseas for biliousness or constipation you know what pill pleasure is. These famous little pills cleanse the liver and rid the system of all bile without producing unpleasant effects. They do not gripe, sicken or weaken, but pleasantly give tone and strength to the tissues and organs of the stomach, liver and bowels. Sold by R. C. Dodson.

Moral masks deceive no one but their wearers.

A Cure Guaranteed.

Many people after taking certain remedies are to all appearances cured but the question always arises, "Do they stay cured?" The great claim for that splendid remedy, Thompson's Barosma, backache, Kidney and Liver Cure is that it makes a decided and lasting cure and that the general health is restored. Send for circulars of testimonials to E. K. Thompson & Son, Titusville, Pa. For sale by R. C. Dodson.

NOTICE THIS COAT

It has the look that the great artist gives to a picture—that look the ordinary tailor would go crazy trying to produce. Its mighty fine tailoring and only the best craftsman can make these garments. The cheap ready-made concerns don't even think of such a thing.

The makers of our best Clothing,

Kirschbaum, of Philadelphia

have brought out many new ideas in high grade Clothing this season and it is a pleasure for us to show them to you. When you try them on you will realize that all we say about them is not half enough.
